DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

- The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:
   The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
- 2. Claims 4 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

As per claims 4 and 5, it is not clear what the applicant meant by "maximally discharged/discharging".

As per claim 5, the limitation "substantially exceeds" renders the claim indefinite failing to clearly set forth the metes and bounds of the claimed invention.

The following art rejection will be made as best understood by the Examiner in light of the above 35 USC 112 rejections.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in thisOffice action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.
- 4. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kawaguchi et al (US patent 5,793,189 B1).

As per claim 3, Kawaguchi et al (herein after Kawaguchi) teach a device for supplying electricity to a motor vehicle comprising a chargeable battery (7); a voltage transformer (6) having a first end connected to said chargeable battery; a capacitor (2) for charging said chargeable battery connected to a second end of said voltage transformer wherein the maximum voltage of said capacitor has a value which is greater than a maximum voltage of said battery (col. 5, line 63).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
  - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 6. Claims 4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kawaguchi.

As per claims 4-6, Kawaguchi teaches all the limitations except discharging said capacitor until the voltage of said capacitor has been reduced to a voltage equal to the battery voltage. Kawaguchi teaches that when the capacitor voltage provided to the DC-DC converter is reduced to a specific value said converter output is stopped to avoid over-discharging the capacitor. Thus, it is the Examiner's opinion that it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to stop the battery charging when the capacitor voltage is equal to the battery voltage. If the voltage transformer reduces the capacitor high voltage to a voltage suitable to charge the battery (i.e., battery nominal voltage), then it would be impossible to reduce the capacitor voltage to a higher value and possible damage may occur to the system.

7. Art of general nature has been cited for applicant's review.

Blair, Ochiai, Imaizumi, Dougherty et al, Kitajima et al, Gale et al and Burke teach a dual-battery charge/discharge vehicle electrical system.
